BODY IS FOUND.

Drowned Man Located By William Allen in Eel Rack.

RELATIVES ARE HEARD FROM.

Allen Saw Body Floating on Surface . Name Corbin, Not Carlin—No Inquest Necessary—Body Sent to Mt. Vernon, N. Y.

Floating on the surface of the river, held against an eel weir by the current, the badly decomposed body of the young man with the street carnival, who fell from a row boat Tuesday, was found Thursday morning by William Allen, a well known fisherman. The place where Allen saw the body was not more than 400 feet from the point where the drowning occurred.

Bloated and discolored by the 40 hours of submersion in the muddy river, the body was towed ashore, and Justice Meredith, acting as coroner, viewed the remains. The body was then wrapped in a sheet and removed to Smith Brothers' undertaking rooms and prepared for burial.

It was ascertained that the proprietors of the street carnival had not made any effort to locate or communicate with the boy's relatives. The name of the drowned lad was John W. Corbin, and not Carlin, as at first given out by the show people. On last week's pay roll of the outfit appears the name of Jack Corbin, New Rochelle, N. Y. Undertaker Smith telephoned Coroner Holcomb at Ulster, who after hearing the details of the case said that an inquest would scarcely be required. As it is imperative, under the circumstances, to make immediate interment, the body was buried by the local authorities in Potter's field Thursday afternoon.

Chief Miller wired to Mt. Vernon Thursday noon, and telegrams were received that night stating that H. E. Taylor & Co., of Mt. Vernon, guaranteed the expense of shipping Corbin's body to that place. The dead man is said to have $150 on deposit in Mt. Vernon and his family appears to be of the class to take charge of the son whom they loved and have lost. Smith Brothers accordingly shipped the body, over the Lehigh, at an early hour Friday morning.

Chief Miller's investigation Thursday afternoon revealed a story of pathetic human interest in connection with young Corbin's death. The young man had been employed as a driver and agent for the Willow Brook Dairy at Mount Vernon, where he helped to support his mother, the family being very poor and receiving little help from the father and husband. In the clothing of the dead man was found a letter written by the mother on July 31. "Carrie and little Charlie are always talking of you," ran this solicitous missive. "We all sit around the table talking of your coming home; our home does not seem complete without you, dear John; you must be so lonely, God bless you, my boy. Be sure to write me and tell me if you got the parcel, the coat and vest I sent, and I will write you again as soon as I get your letter."

Young Corbin is said by Manager George Drummond of the company, to have been a steady, sober young man. He worked in the moving picture show, at small wages, and is said to have left home because of a disagreement with his father.

Business Cultivation.

There are some hardy plants which, once fairly rooted in good soil, will flourish and bear fruit in their season without the intervention of artificial agencies. But business reputation is not one of these. No matter how firmly established or how thriving, without the constant stimulation of publicity its growth will be checked and it will eventually wither away. There is no legitimate commercial enterprise with so firm a hold upon the public but that it wil be forgotten by those upon whom it depends for support unless it is upheld by some form of advertising. The nswspaper points the way to the best system of business cultivation. — Philadelphia Record.

CAN ANY PERSON USE MILEAGES?

Letter from an Official Which Seems to Say So.

According to their own inadvertent admission, any person can use the Pennsylvania's interchangeable mileage books, for which the railroad company charges $20, and requires a deposit of $10 while the book is in use.

William Pettit of Philadelphia, lost a mileage book and wrote asking that no transportation be acepted upon it. He received in reply the following letter which in itself is an admission that the railroads have knowledge that others than individual owners are using the books:

"William Pettit, 1109 Market street, Philadelphia, Pa.

"Dear Sir: Referring further to the loss of your mileage ticket mentioned above, beg to advise that we are in receipt of two additional identification slips issued in connection with the use of this ticket by a party signing the name of W. H. Harnver, as follows:

"Aug. 1, Pennsylvania, New York to Phiadelphia.

"Aug. 2, Pennsylvania, Philadelphia to Wilmington. This for your information.

Very truly,
"L. P. FARMER,
"Commissioner."

Pettit is an employe of the Philadelphia Enquirer which has been active in the fight against the requirement, by the railroads, of the $10 deposit.

ATTEMPTS TO WRECK EXPRESS

Two Lads Interfere With Black Diamond at Geneva.

Because they wanted to "see the engine jump" two ignorant Italian boys are under arrest at Rochester, N. Y., charged with trying to wreck the Lehigh Valley's Black Diamond express, near Geneva. The engineer noticed boys running along the track and as the train drew nearer the point he noticed small obstructions on the track. The train was stopped, and investigation showed that several pieces of iron had been placed on the rails, some of which the wheels had passed over.

After the police and Lehigh special officers had arrested the Italian boys one of them made a confession, saying that they wanted to "see the engine jump."

Iron-Clad Nerve.

At midnight a few nights ago a prominent Wilkes-Barre physician was awakened from his slumbers by the ringing of his night bell. He hastily dressed and found at the door a neighboring woman, who asked permission to use his telephone. The desired permission having been granted, the woman coolly proceeded to call up another physician and requested him to come to her home to attend her sick child. And the doctor who was called from bed to accommodate his neighbor has not yet recovered from the shock given him by the colossal nerve of the woman.

He Saw O'Toole.

Thomas O'Toole, the murderer, who broke out of the Lawrence county jail at New Castle, was seen by W. W. Livermore, a brakeman on the Lake Shore railroad, at Hornbill, a small town near Sharon. Livermore used to reside near O'Toole in New Castle and knows him. well Officers in Trumbull county, Ohio, just across the line were at once notified and a search is being made for the man. Officers were after O'Toole in this county last week.

Her Deery Now.

Pretty 19 years old Neva Emery, the belle of Kimberton, a quiet little hamlet nestled among the Pikeland hills eloped with Freelnd Deery, a neighbor boy, a few nights ago. The girl's father is A. W. Emery, the village baker, and is one of the most highly respected citizens of the community. Young Deery, who is barely 21, is a scion of the old Deery family that has dwelt in the Pikelands for the past 100 years or more.

Seels's Arm Struck Crane.

Henry Seels of Easton, a well known Lehigh Valley engineer, pulling fast trains between Easton and Sayre, had his right arm severely injured while passing through Homets Ferry. Leaning from his cab window, his elbow projected and came in forcible contact with a mail crane which had been allowed to swing out too near the tracks. The injury was treated at the Packer hospital in Sayre.

Died of Spinal Meningitis.

Cerebro-spinal meningitis, the dread disease which last Winter swept New York city, and which is not yet thoroughly understood by physicians, caused the death at Sayre Thursday of little James Kirkland, two years old, the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Kirkland of North Lehigh avenue. There have been few cases of the disease ever reported in this section.

COURT PROCEEDINGS.

Bunyan vs. Bunyan Presented Some Interesting Law Points.

ESTATE MATTERS TANGLED.

Other Orders of the Court and Matters of Interest to Attorneys of Recent Date—Many Subpoenas in Divorce Have Been Awarded.

In George L. Bunyan, Exr. to use of Mary L. Jackson et. al. vs. Andrew Bunyan et. al., Judge Fanning finds in favor of the plaintiff the sum of $1,736.76.

The case was an important one and involved many intricate legal questions. Some years ago William Bunyan, late of Granville township, died, intestate, the owner of a large farm. His two sons, Andrew and George L. Bunyan, purchased the property, paying two-thirds of the purchase money and giving a mortgage for the payment of the remaining one-third, amounting to $4,146.67, to Rosetta M. Bunyan and the heirs of William Bunyan upon which amount the widow was entitled to draw interest during life. Later the farm was divided, Andrew and George each taking one-half or 105½ acres, being of equal value. Through some oversight or neglect the purchase money mortgage was not recorded until one and one-half years after its execution. Following the amicable partition of the land between the two brothers, Andrew became involved, a judgment being entered against him prior in point of time to the recording of the mortgage. Upon this judgment the land was sold, Rosetta M. Bunyan claiming a large amount of interest in arrears, ordered the money into court and at the audit held for the purpose of making distribution, claimed the fund on the ground as alleged that the mortgage was entitled to preference over the judgment by reason of the judgment creditor having knowledge of the unrecorded mortgage at the time the indebtedness was incurred.

The contention was decided by the auditor in her favor who directed first that the arrears of interest be paid to the widow, and recommended that the balance of the fund be impounded in court for the benefit of the parties (the mortgagees) entitled thereto. Exceptions were filed to this report and later a settlement was made between the widow and the judgment creditor by which $423.57 more of the fund recommended to be impounded, was paid to him to apply on the judgment, which settlement was approved by Benjamin M. Peck, then president judge.

After the mortgage was recorded and the judgment entered against Andrew, Theodore F. Porter became a subsequent lien creditor of George L. Bunyan. He was present at the audit referred to,i nsisting upon the application of the proceeds of the Andrew Bunyan land to the mortgage, as by reducing the amount thereof it would increase his security as creditor of George. He opposed the settlement referred to, and the application of any portion of the fund to the judgment against Andrew, but it was held by the court that he had no standing to make the contest.

Years went by and said Porter finally sold the one-half of the land owned by George L. Bunyan. Rosetta M. Bunyan having died, the heirs issued a scire facias to collect from said land purchased by Porter, the balance of the mortgage remaining unpaid. Porter defended on the ground that the fund raised from Andrew Bunyan's land had not been applied on the mortgage and that the lien thereof as to the amount so mis-applied had been divested, thereby reducing the amount pro tanto which the George L. Bunyan should pay. The evidence showed that the heirs of William Bunyan had no knowledge of the amicable partition or of the debt of Theodore F. Porter at the time of the audit and the subsequent settlement. It was held by the court that Porter in order to interpose a defense to this action should have given notice of his judgment and warned them against any action which would prejudice his rights as a subsequent judgment creditor.

Under the law if no exceptions are filed within 30 days, judgment will be rendered for the plaintiff.

Mary Andrews vs. James Andrews; Mae Isabelle Remage vs. Edwin M. Remage; subpoenaes in divorce awarded.

A subpoena in divorce has been awarded in the case of Rosalie A. Harkness vs. Orange E. Harkness.

Andrew Bailey vs. Valentine Bailey, certiorari from justice of the peace. Opinion of the court filed in which judgment is reversed and set aside.

Elmer Hoover vs. H. L. Marcy, certiorari. Exception dismissed and jupdgment of magistrate affirmed.

District Attorney Mills on Monday filed in the juvenile court a petition relating to the Italian baby found on July 27 in the barn of Willard Cox at Lamoka, reciting that the child is neglected and dependent and without means of support. A hearing will be held on Monday, Aug. 20. This action is taken to bring the matter before the court that the child may be legally adopted or sent to some home.

WILL RUN TRAINS WITH TELEPHONES.

Lackawanna Railroad to Dispense With Telegraph Operators.

Official announcement was made at Scranton Friday that the Lackawanna railroad will, at an early date, dispense with the services of telegraphers on its system and will control the movements of trains with the automatic block signal system and the additional telephone facilities. The change will affect the entire line from Hoboken to Buffalo as well as all the branches. This will be the first railroad in America to make such a sweeping change. Trains will then be controlled under rules practiced in England where dispatchers are unknown.

General Superintendent Clark of the Lackawanna railroad, authorized the information that his company is preparing to adopt a new method which embraces the simultaneous use of one wire for both telegraph and telephone, in connection with a new type of switch board. The company will also rearrange its present wires so as to give several of such circuits in which any designated wire can be quickly converted into exclusive telegraph or telephone, or joint telegraph-telephone use.

PROHIBITION NOMINATIONS.

Vacancies on the State Ticket Filled by the Committee.

The state executive committee of the Prohibition party has filled three vacancies on the state ticket by nominating the following: For governor, Homer L. Castle of Pittsburg. For lieutenant governor, H. D. Patton of Lancaster. For secretary of internal affairs, George Hoffman of Montgomery.

All are Prohibitionists. The governorship vacancy was due to the declination of State Treasurer William H. Berry, Democrat, who was nominated by the state convention in May. Mr. Castle's promotion from lieutenant governor to governor left a vacancy in the former place. The nomination for secretary of internal affairs had been declined by Elisha A. Coray, Lincoln Republican, necessitating the filling of that place.

For the governorship the name of Lewis Emery, Jr., the Lincoln-Democratic nominee, was presented, but the vote was 12 to 4 against him. Mr. Castle was then nominated unanimously.

P. O. S. OF A. ENCAMPMENT.

Plans for Erection of New Home Will Be Presented.

The annual encampment of the state organization of the P. O. S. of A. is to be held at Allentown on Aug. 28, 29 and 30, and it is expected that the meeting will be the largest in the history of the organization, as the order is now enjoying a period of prosperity never before experienced.

It is stated that the figures to be given by the state secretary will show a total membership in the state of 82,000 larger than that of any other order, with the single exception of the Odd Fellows.

One of the important subjects to be taken up for consideration at this meeting will be the question of securing new quarters and a permanent hall for the officials in Philadelphia. It is likely also that a committee will be appointed to formulate plans for holding a big celebration in Philadelphia in 1907, in commemoration of the founding of the order 60 years prior to that time.

Laurel Line to Carry Freight.

The "Laurel Line," Wilkes-Barre's famous mile-a-minute trolley road, has just completed arrangements to carry freight, and is entering into traffic agreements with other regular roads to effect an exchange. Freight yards and sheds are to be greatly enlarged at Wilkes-Barre and Scranton, the terminals of the Laurel line. In railroad circles it is stated that the Lackawanna and the Laurel line are in the freight carrying proposition together.

How long will it be before the Lehigh will be entering into traffic arrangements with the mile-a-minute line that is to run from Waverly to Towanda?

Eighty-Eigth Birthday.

At a family reunion held last week at the home of Mrs. Charles Vincent, in Milan, the occasion was made the celebration of the 88th birthday of Mrs. Julia A. Hoyt, Mrs. Vincent's mother.

There were 34 relatives present including nine sons and daughters of Mrs. Hoyt. Two sons living in Michigan were unable to be present. Among those present from a distance were her son, W. H. Hoyt of Connecticut, and nephew, A. K. Townsend of Elgin, Ill. Dinner was served in a tent, and the aged guest of honor was among the most enthusiastic participants of the enjoyable event.

POMONA GRANGE NO 23

Held a Most Profitable Session at West Granville.

ASK FOR DIRECT LEGISLATION.

There Was a Good Attendance of Patrons and the Subjects Were Ably and Fully Discussed—Parcels Post and State School Support.

Bradford and Sullivan County Pomona Grange, No. 23, met with West Granville grange Aug. 2 and 3. The attendance was very large and the question in the minds of many was how these gatherings are to be cared for in the near future at the present rate of increase. The people of West Granville had made ample preparation for a large number and the visitors were all very nicely entertained. Nearly 600 meals were served on Thursday.

The meeting was full of interest from the beginning and discussions lively. The morning session was largely taken up with routine work, reading minutes of last meeting and the reports from subordinate granges. Membership is still increasing, as is the interest in lecturer's work. Several have arranged programs for six months. The following questions were given for discussion:

Should the women help in the farm work and should they make the garden? Do we, as patrons, keep our obligations as we ought? How can errors in grange work be most easily corrected? Is it desirable to have a critic to report near the close of each meeting.

Thursday Afternoon.

Soon after calling to order the Worthy Master of West Granville grange, J. D. Bunyan, extended to the visitors a cordial welcome to which a pleasing response was made by Bro. A. S. Stevens, followed by a song by choir. Discussion, "Is it more profitable to separate milk at home than at the creamery?" was opened by Robert A. Saxton, who thinks it is. This question was freely discussed; a number thinking that the sweet skimmed milk for calves and pigs more than paid for the extra expense and labor, and others that it was better to take the milk to the creamery. "Does it pay to feed grain the year around if butter is selling at 20 cents?" This question was opened by J. R. Vannoy and discussed at length by the members. The general opinion was that for not more than two months in the year, during the flush of grass season, it is best to feed no grain.

The committee appointed at the last meeting composed of N. D. Snyder, F. S. Morley and F. R. West, to confer with a like committee from Wyoming County Pomona Grange, looking to a return to the freight rates on coal and plaster by the Lehigh Valley Railroad company in 1873, as agreed by this county at that time, made a report through Bro. Morley. The joint committees meet in Tunkhannock in June and the matter will soon be placed in the hands of the attorney general. Upon motion, the committee was retained, and the work extended. Recitation by Miss Grace Packard.

A letter from Past Master, M. W. Ferguson, now of Tacoma, Washington, was read and the secretary was instructed to convey to him the kind regards of this Pomona grange.

Hon. M. E. Lilley was present and gave a short talk on denatured alcohol. In Germany 300,000,000 gallons are used annually. Its use will effect a great saving in many ways, as lights, fuel, and motive power.

The alfalfa question was talked on briefly, not many being successful in this section, when house adjourned to meet in fifth degree session.

Thursday Evening.

This was an open session and was very largely attended. Opened by music and prayer by Rev. H. B. Allen. Mrs. H. B. Allen recited a humorous selection, "Jane Jones," and responded to an encore.

Prof. H. A. Surface of Harrisburg, was introduced and gave a practical, sound common sense talk on "The Needs of the Farmer." First, we need to recognize our power. The good crops of 1903 averted a financial panic. We must realize our greatness as others realize it. We need an honest and just taxation law. Governor Pennypacker's recommendation to tax the output of the coal and iron mines commended. We need the parcels post, savings banks, initiative and referendum—these with trolley freight legislation and other reforms will come as surely as have come rural free delivery and the passage of the Grout bill.

A duet, "Starlight," was very nicely rendered by Mr. Claude and Miss Bessie Elsbree. Miss Grace Packard recited and as usual, was called back. Grangers can appreciate fine music and speaking if they are nothing but farmers. Misses Bessie and Lois Kittle sang very sweetly a pathetic song, "Just Tell My Wife." By request of the house Mrs. Allen was called for and kindly gave another selection. Closed with song by choir.

Friday Morning.

Opened with song and recitation by Irene Fleming. Bro. J. E. Bird gave a talk on farmers' national banks. The speaker evidently understands the subject thoroughly and presented it in a manner to convince the hearer that it is for our interests to organize grange banks in every county.

Whereas, An organized movement (with headquarters at Pittsburg) is systematically interrogating the various legislative candidates of the state relative to their position on the issue of "Direct Legislation" or the "Initiative and Referendum," and

Whereas, This measure is one that the Grange has been working for in the past having been endorsed repeatedly by our State and Pomona Grange, and,

Whereas, We believe it would work the same satisfactory results for Pennsylvania as in Oregon, whose governor says:

" It is my opinion that the initiative and referendum amendment to the constitution will have a most salutary effect in Oregon. In the first place it will make legislative bodies more careful of the people's rights, and will make them hesitate to pass extravagant appropriation bills and other measures which will not meet with the approval of the people, and if demands for healthful legislation are ignored, the people have it in their power to initiate such laws as they may deem necessary for the advancement of their interests and for their protection. One of the noticeable things at the first session of the legislature after the adoption of the amendment referred to was the decrease in the number of lobbyists, whose vocation it was prior to that to hang around each succeeding legislative assembly * * * One thing is sure, the party boss and the machine are both eliminated from politics, and with them must inevitably go corruption in public life.'

Therefore, Resolved, That Pomona Grange No. 23, composed of Bradford and Sullivan counties, in regular session, Aug. 2 and 3, do hereby direct its legislative committees of each county to interrogate all legislative candidates relative to their position on submitting an amendment to our State Constitution providing for "Direct Legislation."

Resolved, That we, as Patrons of Husbandry of Pomona District No. 23, we ask our congressmen and United States senators for the establishing of the parcels post.

Resolved, That we, as Patrons of Husbandry of Pomona District No. 23, ask our state legislature to grant an annual state appropriation of $15,000-000 for school purposes.

Resolved, That this Pomona Grange, in regular session with West Granville, extend a vote of thanks for the royal manner in which they have entertained the Patrons at this session of Pomona, also to the trustees of the Methodist church for the use of their commodious building for the place of meeting.

Report adopted as read.

Hon. E. G. Rogers of Sullivan county, read a paper showing careful preparation, "The Farmers Interests Economically Considered." He brought out many good thoughts and gave several illustrations of the wasteful distribution of our taxes.

Bro. Rogers also reported the work done in Sullivan county by the Pomona legislative committee in questioning candidates for the legislature; all those interviewed placed themselves on record as replying satisfactorily to the questions sent out by the legislative committee of the State grange. Meeting closed to meet with Iona grange in November.

The stalk worm, to use a common term, is no respecter of plants and shows no partiality, attacking the pigweed with the same destructiveness that it does the potato vine, salvia or aster. The worm is a hard proposition, because there is no method of placing a poison in the places where it feeds.

France has taken pains to perpetuate her forest reserves by the adoption of a law which compels the planting of a tree in the place of every one that is cut down. It is a noticeable fact that the farmers' wives and daughters do most of the trading these days. On a recent Saturday it was observed that the streets of a thriving western town were almost lined with light buggies and vehicles, whereas, as a rule, those same streets were banked up with heavy farm wagons. The farmers all over the country are getting in their heavy work these days.

There's a world of agricultural prosperity and happiness involved in the decision of the man who is satisfied with the careful and competent working of eighty acres of land and for whom the tax receipts and help bill involved in skinning over 600 acres have no attraction. This matter of contentment, of being satisfied with a reasonable worldly possession, is a more important factor in contributing to the dignity and real worth of living than any other material consideration of which we know.

Whenever it is possible for the young woman to do so she should supplement her general or cultural education with a course in domestic science. While there are in many such courses a good many culinary fluffs and frills and nonessentials, yet she will acquire there in six months a larger fund of information touching the science and fundamental facts of cooking than she could stumble on to by herself in the course of two or three years. If she has a discerning mind, and every prospective housewife should have this, she will be able to separate the chaff from the wheat in the course of domestic science mentioned, making use of that which is practical and passing that which is superfluous and nonessential.

THE CRAZE FOR LAND.

Many's the man—for it is more often due to the husband than the wife—who when gray hairs have come and his body is stiffened with hard work and rheumatism awakes to a realizing sense that the yearning for the next eighty, the inordinate desire for mere possession without regard to consequences entailed upon himself or the members of his family, was a most profitless and disappointing ambition. He senses the fact all too late that he can live but one life; that the real worth and value of life consist not in possessing large estates, but a reasonable enjoyment of its advantages and blessings as one goes along when there are still within him and those who journey at his side both the will and the capacity to enjoy. Some of the most miserable and unhappy people we have ever known have been of the class described, consumed with an inordinate desire to possess more stock, more land, have a larger bank account and sacrificing practically everything that makes life worth living, only at the last, when the cup was drained, to realize that it contained no satisfying draft, but only bitter dregs.

We are this year going to get two crops from a portion of our garden patch—early potatoes and a nice crop of navy beans, which were planted between the hills in the row about June 1. The American Farm Products company is the name of a new combine of huge proportions which has in view control of the dairy, poultry and egg output of the entire country. The aim will be to give the farmer larger returns by eliminating the middleman and at the same time to do away with speculation and consequent fluctuation in the prices of the commodities handled.

One of the most attractive of our common American shade trees and yet one about which one sees very little in the way of commendation is the linden or basswood. This tree is a quick grower, has a large, handsome leaf, and, while it sheds a few small seeds, makes very slight litter when it comes to dead twigs and branches. We would rank it for shade purposes well up toward the elm and hard maple.

A potato grower of whom we read the other day has solved the problem of the weeds which usually go to seed in his patch after the potatoes are ripe by sowing buckwheat just as the vines begin to die. He puts his potatoes in to a good depth so that little hilling is necessary, cuts the buckwheat when ripe and later digs his potatoes. This gives him two crops from the same piece of land and, besides, the satisfaction of having his field kept free from weeds.

With a view to isolating and preserving the microbes which produce epidemic diseases among mammals injurious to agriculture, such as prairie dogs, rabbits, spermophiles, field mice and rats, the department of agriculture has sent out a circular letter requesting that any information or data relative to such epidemics, whether present or future, be mailed to it, so that the disease can be investigated by the department specialists and microbes producing it preserved.

If there is a little toddler in your home requiring constant watching and entertainment try the plan of building a little yard or pen about ten feet square in some shady, protected place, filling it with sand and the child's playthings, where he can play in happiness and safety. Dress the youngster in a cool, sensible way and don't worry every time he gets his face dirty. The child will spend a great many happy hours there, and you mother folks will be the gainers.

It is doubtful if the Iowa "plant wizard" who has succeeded in propagating a strawberry that will produce fruit throughout the summer season has very much of a bonanza, after all. We incline to the view that, while there is nothing in the berry line that beats the strawberry for its season, it would find hard sledding when it came into direct competition with the raspberry, blackberry, tomato and muskmelon. When a fellow has had four or five weeks' run of any fruit or vegetable he's thankful that there is something else coming on which will give a variety. And this is true even of the luscious strawberry.

BUILDING THE SILO.

There may be several readers of these notes who are this year planning to build a silo. While there are a number of different designs for building them and many of them have given very satisfactory results, we describe here somewhat in detail the plans of a 200 ton capacity silo which has recently been built on a big dairy farm within a few miles of the writer's home. It furnishes most of the winter ration for a herd of 100 pure bred Jersey cows and was built according to the best specifications that could be secured. The foundation consists of a circular stone wall two feet thick and measuring twenty feet in diameter from outside to outside. This is set about three feet and a half below the surface of the ground, the bottom of the silo proper consisting of six inches of gravel, packed down and finished with cement, much after the manner of the ordinary cement walk. The top of the wall is made perfectly level, being finished in cement, as is also the inside of the wall. The tower which rests on this wall sets in about six inches, which gives it an outside diameter of about nineteen feet. It is thirty feet high and is made of 6 by 6 timbers tongued, grooved and beveled, bought finished and ready to put together. Any good creamery supply house can furnish them. In putting together the staves are made to vary in length and lap so as to stiffen and strengthen the structure. Sectional iron rod hoops are used to hold the framework together. When this is in place the shoulder left on the inside and on top of the wall is covered with bevel of cement extending up on to the timbers about four inches, so as to make an air tight joint. The silo in question is finished with a cone shaped, water tight roof and is stayed with guy wires to prevent overturning by the wind. To counteract possible air leaks the interior is lined with tar paper. The product from about thirty acres of corn is required to fill the silo, on which cutting is begun about a week before the time of harvesting for ordinary dry fodder. The last corn put in the silo may be a little too ripe, but this does not matter. Where help can be had the most satisfactory way is to have a man inside to scatter and tramp the silage down as it is delivered from the elevator. If help is short all hands may turn in after half a day's cutting and level and tramp down. The way in which the silage will keep depends much upon the manner in which this work is done. There are eleven openings three feet square, one above another, on the side of the silo nearest the barn, the doors being beveled and fitted to the opening so that the pressure from within will make them fit the tighter. In case a silo of smaller capacity is desired these plans could be easily reduced. The silage is the best possible food for the dairy ration, but the owner of this silo finds it excellent for the stock in the field lot.

UNSATISFACTORY CREAM TESTS.

Experience of individual sellers of cream, together with the evidence of those who are at present looking into the question with a definite object in view, seems to go to prove that the Babcock tests as used in many of the creameries of the country are very far from satisfactory, and, while the difficulty may not be due to a desire on the part of buyers to be dishonest, the system of testing is decidedly unreliable and unsatisfactory. Samples of the same batch of cream sent to different factories will show a wide variation in the amount of butter fat. In almost every case the test mentioned results in advantage to the buyer, many instances being noted where the buyer's test showed from eight to ten pounds less butter to 100 pounds of cream than shown by the churn. Where none of the patrons of the company are holders of its stock, every man of them is systematically fleeced and with little opportunity for redress. With co-operative creameries the stockholder patrons are themselves the beneficiaries, the profit made from the low Babcock test in the case of those who are patrons and not stockholders often serving to cover the cost of making the whole output of the creamery. The only way out for the sufferers from a situation such as the one described is to secure stock in a co-operative concern or make a united protest to the managers of the company which handles their product. The abuse mentioned is simply a graft that is worked under the guise of what has heretofore been supposed to be an authoritative and scientific method of testing, and evidence piling up would seem to indicate that before long there will be a radical change.

The annual Pomona grange picnic of Bradford and Sullivan counties is to be held at Mountain Lake, Aug. 31, 1906. G. W. Oster, a member of the executive committee of the Pennsylvania State grange, will deliver an address and be followed by short talks on grange subjects by Hon. M. E. Lilley, Hon. George Moscrip, State Lecturer A. M. Cornell, and W. B. Packard.

The Willson chorus and quartet singers of Columbia grange, will furnish most excellent music for the occasion. The object of this meeting is to advance the interests of the grange and it is hoped that each grange will strive to have the largest per centage of attendance of its members present with badges on. The executive committee will see that seats of honor be provided for all Pomona officers and subordinate masters and report the attendance from each grange.

The recent session of Pomona grange held with West Granville grange will be fully reported by the worthy secretary. As we view it the session was pleasant and profitable and the reports very encouraging. The hospitality shown by the brothers and sisters of West Granville grange will long be remembered.

Our aim at the present time is to get, or stir up, a greater interest in lecturer's work so we quote the views of a prominent state grange lecturer, whose remarks are fully concurred in. Our correspondence with the subordinate lecturers has been very pleasant and we trust that the reports of the discussions in granges will be more complete and result in increased interest in grange work.

The ultimate object of the grange is to find and maintain the proper place in society for the former. All society depends upon him, so it is right that he should be awarded what justly belongs to him. He works for the world so the world shall pay him for it. The grange will see to it that the former gets what belongs to him. Society must pay what it costs to produce food and a little profit should be added for the farmer's comfort and source of happiness. The grange means development of mind in the farmer's brain. It stands for knowledge of cost of that which the farmer needs, of the proper modes by which exchange of products may be made. The grange means culture, development and even polish of our best civilization.

The lecturer of the Connecticut State grange says: "We believe it advisable for the Pomona lecturer to enter into correspondence with each subordinate lecturer in his district in regard to lecture work, make a list of the best workers and kind of work and select from the best in making Pomona program. In making a program the lecturer should aim at a definite purpose, something more than just a good time. He should be present at each meeting and urge allofficers to perform their duties, promptly setting an example for right doing for subordinate granges. A subordinate lecturer should never neglect or refuse to take part in the program of a Pmoona grange when asked by the Pomona lecturer, for by complying with such requests he comes to understand how members feel when asked to do a specified work. We believe that much good would result from a district convention of lecturers called for the Pomona lecturer whereby a more systematized time of educational work might be planned. It is customary for the entertaining grange to furnish the music and help on the program by taking part in the discussions, etc. It is the duty of the Pomona lecturer to prepare the Pomona grange program and announce the same to all granges in the district. In most counties this is done by printed slips or folder program; a copy should be sent to each grange and also to each person whose name appears on the program.

All good patrons labor the good of the grange and thus make it really good for something to its members and the community in which it is located. Like a plow, the grange is a machine that becomes rusty when unused but a source of pride and profit when kept bright. A good patron is one who drops all selfishness and believes that all brothers and sisters have good in them.

One patrons says, "I am more and more impressed with the possibilities of the grange. One patron or grange cannot accomplish the whole work but each can contribute its mite and become a mighty avalanche."

The world is made of small particles and it took a long time and a great many to make it but it is a good world. Every thought and action of the humblest member is a unit that helps to build up the order but it takes a great many of them so let us put in as many of them as we can.

KEEP THE KIDNEYS WELL.

Health is Worth Saving, and Some Towanda People Know How to Save it.

Many Towanda people take their lives in their hands by neglecting the kidneys when they know these organs need help. Sick kidneys are responsible for a vast amount of suffering and ill-health, but there is no need to suffer nor to remain in danger when all diseases and aches and pains due to weak kidneys can be quickly and permanently cured by the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. Here is the statement of a Towanda citizen who has reclaimed good health by the use of this remedy:

J. A. Campbell, clerk in M. J. Long's grocery store and living at 105 York avenue, says: "It is about a year since I had my first experience with Doan's Kidney Pills. At that time I was having considerable annoyance from pains across the small of my back. I have no doubt but the constant standing on my feet aggravated it if it did not cause the trouble. Doan's Kidney Pills which I bought at Dr. H. C. Porter & Son's drug store quickly stopped the attack. I was quite free from it until a few weeks ago when there were symptoms of a reoccurrence. I again resorted to the use of Doan's Kidney Pills and as in the former case they brought about the desired results. This proved to my satisfaction that Doan's Kidney Pills can be depended upon."

A pleasant family gathering took place at the home of F. C. Robertson in Orwell, on July 11, in honor of his 84th birthday. There were assembled his children, grandchildren and one great-gandchild, making four generations present. Those from a distance were his granddaughter, Mrs. J. C. McHenry, and his great-grandson, Master Edward McHenry, both of Tunkhannock. Entertainment was furnished by his granddaughters in the afternoon. A photograph was taken of the group, the family all being present except Mr. McHenry;

Giving Good Satisfaction.

Few companies coming to Hale's Opera House give the genuine satisfaction that the Bennett-Moulton is giving every night this week. Last night "The Life Saver," a stirring nautical drama was presented. The company is well balanced and the title roles taken by Ferdinand Tidmarsh are exceptionally well presented. The specialties between the acts—songs, dances and moving pictures—are o. k. Tonight "A Cowboy's Romance."

TOWANDA, PA., AUGUST 16, 1906.

Miss Ida Simonton of Pittsburg, is going to Africa to learn the monkey language. Perhaps she wants to learn how to propose to some of them in Pittsburg.

A Chicago man who has 14 children and earns $14 a week has been excused by the commissioners from paying taxes. Chicago always was a good Roosevelt town.

$50,000,000 which had been overlooked has been found and added to the Sage estate. Better go through Uncle Russell's old vests some more. The vein may not be exhausted.

"Budd's Babies Beat Peck's Peaches" is the clever caption with which the Troy Gazette-Register spreads information that one local base ball team won a game from another.

Here's another disappointment for the scandal mongers. The dirty Hartje divorce case in Pittsburg, which has been before the public for weeks, has been closed, but the judge is going on his vacation and no decision will be given until Fall.

The total war strength of the army in Austria-Hungary is 2,580,000 men; France, 4,350,000; Germany, 5,240,000; Great Britain—England, Wales, Scotland and Ireland—884,095; Japan, 632,007; Russia, 5,258,000; and the United States, 100,000 regulars and 110,000 militia.

The first man to announce himself as a candidate for congress from the new state of Oklahoma, is Joseph M. Lahay, a Cherokee, who resides in Claremore. Mr. Lahay is a candidate from the Third district and has long been a prominent figure in the political circles of the Cherokee nation.

Public Printing Superintendent Pomeroy has issued an order that hereafter no more copies of Smull's Legislative handbook will be rebound at the public expense. The entire edition of the book, which is issued every year by the state, will be bound in blue cloth with leather tips and backs. Heretofore 8,000 to 10,000 books were rebound at an additional cost to the state of $1 a copy.

Miss Ethel Roosevelt, the reigning daughter of the White House, is an indefatigable collector of souvenir postal cards. She has just finished her sixteenth book. A large collection has come to her from her sister, Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, who, since her arrival in Europe, has sent a souvenir postal card daily. Mrs. Roosevelt divides between Miss Ethel and her two younger boys all the pictorial cards which she receives.

Gas in Nottingham, England, is 60 cents per 1,000 feet and at Widnes in Lancashire with a population of only about 30,000 it is 30 cents and large consumers will pay from 22 to 26 cents. This is undoubtedly the cheapest gas in the world, but the profit on the gas works to the municipality that owns them was $22,887.15. This information is official and is reported by Consul F. W. Mahin to the state department.

A great business that sprang up almost "in a night" is the manufacture of post cards. The magnitude of it and the vast sums spent for cards and postage is well illustrated by a dispatch from Atlantic City, which says that more than 300,000 1-cent stamps, mainly used for sending these souvenirs out of town, have been used and the postmaster has made a requisition of Washington for a million penny stamps to meet the demand which expands with the increase in the multitude. No less than 3,000 leather post cards alone go through the mail every day.

The Wayne Independent voices the sentiments of every newspaper publisher in the land regarding the "card of thanks:" "If you feel disposed to thank someone through the newspaper for doing an act that is a plain duty, don't. Common decency, if no other consideration, should induce every person to show neighborly good will alike toward all, the rich and the poor, the low and the high, especially in times of trouble, sickness and death and for the exercise f this plain duty of respect and helpfulness, one to the other, there is no call for a public card of thanks. If you cannot in any way do an act of kindness to those who have helped you, there will be an opportunity afforded you to help someone else who is sick or in trouble and thus you can keep current acts of human kindness which are like so many debts to each member of the great human family. Affliction and death and sorrow come to us all and we must never fail to help each other over the hard and wearying places."

"EMERY DOWN AND OUT."

"There are others," says Castle. Homer L. Castle, the Prohibition nominee for governor, is full of hope and fight, and intimates that Stewart and Emery will not be in it when he fairly gets started in the race. In an interview the other day, he said:

"All I have to say now is that we are in this fight to a finish and promise a very warm campaign. There will be a notification meeting, probably at my home, within the next two weeks, and at that meeting I will have something to say and will summarize the situation and outline our plans. After that I will be subject to the call of the state committee, and the campaign will open vigorously; we will have plenty of good speakers and promise some lively speeches and more sensations.'

Mr. Castle was aked how many votes the ticket would poll in the state, and said:

"We will get at least 100,000 votes."

"Then that would defeat Emery," was suggested.

"Emery is down and out, and has been for some time," answered the candidate.

"Then you predict the election of Stuart."

"No, I do not. I will fight him, too, and you must remember that there is another candidate in the field," and Mr. Castle smiled a satisfied smile.

NO BARREL THIS YEAR.

The Republican congressional committee finding many of the old sources of its income cut off, has inaugurated a system for collecting small amounts from individual voters. Contributions of one dollar will be received and by a proper system of collecting funds it is believed that a very satisfactory amount may be raised in this popular way. On the other hand Chairman Griggs of the Democratic committee is even more modest. He declares that the committee is so poor that it cannot waste money in "chasing rainbows." Therefore he asks Democrats not to send in their dollars, but to expend a two cent stamp in telling him promptly if any district is hopeless.

It is evident, therefore, that the sinews of war so plentiful in presidential campaigns will be wanting. The business interests of regalia, campaign banners and torches are likely to be depressed, and practical workers who have heretofore derived sustenance from the campaign funds foresee a hard Winter. Yet the probability is that the congressmen will be elected with as much certainty this year as in those when the operation was lubricated by contributions from corporate accumulations.

LOOK TO THE CONGRESSMEN.

The trouble is that in threshing out of State issues the congressional issue is liable not to be settled on its own merits. Many votes will be diverted from the national aspect of the election by its local aspect and the national aspect must accordingly be forced upon their attention. While it is extremely improbable, in view of the popular esteem for President Roosevelt, that the Democrats will be able to capture the House of Representatives, it is well for the voter to act as if such a contingency were in view. It is to be remembered, especially, that congressional losses by the Republicans are more deplorable in Pennsylvania than elsewhere, for the Pennsylvania Republican members are perhaps more positive defenders of the tariff than those from elsewhere.—Pittsburg Press.

A BAR OF GOLD.

The value of advertising has received novel and conspicious recognition in the offer of a prize consisting of a $1,000 gold bar, to be awarded to that one of the delegates to the International League of Press Clubs' convention who shall write the best descriptive article on Colorado and its resources. The Press Clubs' convention is to be held in Denver during the last week in August, and the announcement of the gold bar prize competition has already been widely circulated.

The judges who will award the prize consist of the governor of Colorado, the Mayor of Denver and the president of the Denver Chamber of Commerce. The purpose of the competition is to advertise the state and to do that it is provided that each one of the descriptive articles on Colorado must be printed in some newspaper of general circulation.

The plan adopted is an excellent one, and there is no doubt that the results will justify the expenditure. The prize is to be a bar of pure Colorado gold, worth $1,000. This is sufficiently tempting to excite a spirited rivalry for its acquisition, and Colorado should profit handsomely by the publicity it will thus obtain.

Sayre appears now to be joining with Waverly to harrass the new owner of the trolley lines; both places are demanding fenders on all cars. It is a bad idea to give corporations too much of a show, but most any outside man, except blind believers of a prejudiced Binghamton paper, will say at once that the trolley line connecting the three valley towns has done more than any other one institution to advance the commercial value of the territory.

Candy manufacturers of the Quaker city are under prosecution for using poisonous dyes, paraffin and sulphur dioxide in their dainties. Adulteration of food is bad enough; but "fixing" the sweetmeats that go to helpless and innocent children, is a misdemeanor which deserves drastic punishment.

Bryan will have to take the Democratic party as he finds it, Tom Taggart and all.—Oswego Times (Rep.)

FARMING AS A BUSINESS.

In proportion as life in crowded cities becomes more irksome under the autocratic domination of janitors and cooks, the life of those who till the fields becomes more attractive. It has not been many years since the farmer was considered an object of commiseration. His lot was certainly a hard one, compared with that of the pampered son of indolence who lived in a steam-heated flat. The farmer of other days was obliged to work from the first glow of the morning until long after dark, and his reward was comparatively slight. Once or twice a year he "went to town," which meant that he visited the largest municipality in his neighborhood. There he saw little to interest him and he was usually well content to return to the farm and again take up the burdens of daily toil.

Today there are comparatively few farmers in the United States who are not in close touch with the outside world. The telephone and the rural mail delivery have connected thousand and thousands of farms with the great cities. Co-operative creameries and elevators have made the farmer an independent business agent. He no longer depends upon the word of the cross-roads storekeeper for the prices of his produce. His daily paper and his telephone make the world's markets a matter of close familiarity. His roads are kept in better condition than ever before, and if he has no automobile he has at least better horses and vehicles than his father's.

The farmers of the present day are business men. They keep accounts and are systematic in their affairs. They have been taught much by the experiment stations that dot the map, and crop rotation is a universal study. Fertilization is considered an essential commitant of farming nowadays, and economy of time, space and energy is a matter of awakening interest. Agricultural colleges have no lack of attendance, and farming is more of a business than ever before. The farmer of today can well feel sorry for the average city dweller who is a victim of daily drudgery in the employ of some one else and is never able to take an independent breath.

Improved machinery, trolley cars, and scientific methods have given the farmer a dignity he never before possessed. The better business man he is the better farmer he is. The bettering of his ruralist's condition should prove a powerful argument in support of the dictum, "Back to the farm."

GALLANT JURIES.

Tennessee juries are notably chivalrous where a woman is the defendant in a case and the fact was never more clearly proven that in the result of the breach of promise case which Miss Lola Walker brought against Colonel Richard Edwards, of Asheville, N. C., a millionaire. They gave her almost half what she asked and she demanded $50,000. The case ended yesterday and the beautiful Chicago choir singer walked from the court room richly, theoretically by the round sum of $21,000.

All juries have a way of tempering justice with mercy, the strict logic with good or bad sense. French juries excel in these practices. A Mme. Canaby of Bordeaux, was accused of having forged two prescriptions and of having obtained large quantities of poison, some of which she administered to her husband, who nearly died and was only saved by his doctor, who suspected something wrong and tok him away. The evidence was overwhedming, for the prisoner completely failed to give any plausible explanation as to why she wanted the poison—enuogh, as the chemist said, to kill two regiments. Nevertheless, the jury found Mme. Canaby guilty of forging the prescriptions, but not guilty of attempting to poison her husband. Perhaps the jury thought the husband unpoisoned was punishment in itself for one crime.

The village of Waverly Towanda's nearest neighbor across the state line, is again getting into the throes of another trolley frainchise war. They manage to keep some sort of a war on hand all the time at Waverly. Just now, because President G. Tracey Rogers of the Corning-Elmira-Waverly road wants permission to use a small strip of land at the Western portion of their village, some of the residents, who a year ago were personally interested in a rival trolley company, which Rogers crushed, are rising in righteous wrath in behalf of the "poor, down-trod pee-pul." Several of the men who were interested in the defeated company have since been elected village trustees and realize their power to "break even" with the indomitable Rogers, who, without doubt, is being backed by the Erie railroad.

In New Orleans, the "News Carriers' Union" has declared a "strike" against three afternoon papers. The limit to which an idea may be carried is gained in the fact that the "union" is regularly organized under the Central Trades Council of New Orleans. Among the modest demands of the "strikers" are that 2 p. m. shall hereafter be the hour of issuing afternoon papers; on holidays that the afternoon papers shill issue at 3:30 in the morning. And the union desires to dictate the number of pages each paper shall issue, inflicting a schedule penalty for violations.

While the young strikers are thus initiating their elders, by whom they are doubtless encouraged, hundreds of New Orleans people are annoyed and inconvenienced, advertisers suffer, circulation managers are driven to distraction, simply, that the young thugs, who carry papers but should be more constantly employed, may amuse themselves by having a "strike."

THE QUIET HOUR.

There is recuperation and revitalizing force in a quiet hour that would be a revelation to any one who has ever tried its power continuously day in and day out through a period of weeks or months. And there is profit as well in thought; it yields dividends of large percentages; and many who imagine they cannot get time for thought are robbing themselves of much of the better part of life by doing manual labor that should be turned over to others who need it as badly as the overworked need time for meditation. Not every man has yet learned of the elysian fields to whose gateways well directed thinking is the open sesame. Said Garrison to the elder Beecher: "Come, help in this humanitarian work!" "I can't," said Beecher, "I have too many other irons in the fire." "Then," said Garrison "you had better let some of them burn, and take hold of this!" So one had better, far better, let some other things go and get time for thought. The president has popularized references to the muck rake man. The incident is from Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress, and the story is of one who, stooped with his rake, was eagerly engaged with the muck, and so knew not of the crown which angel hands held out to him, waiting for the restful upward glance which he never took. So the better part of life is for him who is not too much absorbed with his work, whatever it may be, to enjoy his quiet, restful hour every day for thought and the cultivation of the graces of moderation, mental poise and humantly.—Cent per Cent for August.

AN UNCERTAIN SENTIMENT.

It is not what you used to be but what you are today. One-half a million Chicago rooters cheered "Pop" Anson in days gone by when he made the ticker click as the home plate was successfully reached. The other day the same people refused to give him the nomination for sheriff, though his fitness was everywhere recognized. Such is the fickleness of fortune and human sentiment. Dewey was so much a hero for a few days that the fair dames of New York strewed roses in his path as the caravan conveying the naval hero passed under triumphal arches. He was showered with gifts, one being a house. One month later he was criticised by the same parties for giving the house to his wife, though many estimable American gentlemen have their properties recorded in the names of their better halves.

Schley won the naval battle of Santiago and was heralded all over the country as a hero. But he was later court-martialed and narrowly escaped a conviction. The sentiment of our people is so uncertain that the man who seeks substantial things and allows sentiment to take a vacation usually wins out.

John Keller of Allentown, should have begun training his boy early in life with firm discipline, tempered by paternal kindness, and it is to be supposed he did, but the following should nevertheless serve as a warning to parents all over the land to learn before it is too late the habits and associations of their sons: Thomas Hottle and Arthur Keller, aged 18, were arrested for breaking into a store and stealing $49. When the Keller boy's father heard of the affair he called at the city jail and got permission to enter his son's cell. The boy confessed he was a thief. The father drew from a pocket a rawhide and gave the son a fearful thrashing, blood oozing from the welts.

The legality of the state law, placing the cost for the arrest and detention of railroad tramps on the county, will be tested in the Huntingdon county court through a suit which has been instituted by Sheriff Porh against the commissioners to recover expenses claimed to be due him for this service. During the month of May 43 hoboes were committed to the county jail at Huntingdon for stealing rides on the Pennsylvania railroad. To commit, board and discharge these prisoners represented an outlay by the county of about $215 and the commissioners refuse to pay the bill. This is a matter that will interest Bradford and nearly every other county in the state.

It is calculated that in making coke in the common beehive ovens used in the United States between 350,000 and 400,000 tons of ammonium sulphate, every pound of it valuable for fertilizing purposes, is wasted yearly. In Germany most of the coke is made in improved ovens, which save this by-product. In many things we have learned to utilize waste. By all means we should never let a fertilizer slip from us, even to the utilizing of our sewerage as is done in Europe. What we take from the land must be put back on the land, or iun time we will have a desert.

An Eastern editor says a man got into trouble by marrying two wives. A Western editor says that many men have done the same thing by marrying one. A Northern editor says that quite a number of his friends found trouble by merely promising to marry without going any farther. A Southern editor says a friend of his was bothered enough when he was found in company with another man's wife.

A newly arrived Swedish immigrant girl at Winchester, Conn., was hilarious when lightning struck the house and a ball rolled across the floor. She said, "what a country this is, where the full moon comes in through the roof." She had no idea of the seriousness of the situation.

TO THE FIRE LADDIES.

Towanda's fire laddies are drilling faithfully every evening on the pavement in an effort to make the right sort of showing at Canton. If the home boys behave as well as they drill, there is prospect that some of the prizes, as well as some hearty commendations may come this way.

There are those, generally men who have never taken any interest in firemanic matters, who question whether there be any utility at all in the annual uproarious gatherings of young men in red, green and yellow uniforms, from the whole country side. As far as an outsider can see there is little of the instructive, and mighty little recreation in a firemen's convention. To some people the whole scheme seems merely an excuse for a legalized breach of the public peace.

However, there is another side, and a better, to any such convention. The notion, implanted in each young fireman's mind, that he is going away as a representative of his company and therefor, of his home town, can not help but impart loyalty and patriotism; the fact that his town will be judged, by all spectators and visitors at Canton, by the actions and appearance of Towanda men next Thursday, should be borne in mind by every member of the local department.

Good luck to you, boys! March well, eat well, act well, drink—well, just as little as you can. Leave the booze and brawl to the country daisy-kickers, who have never been out before and Towanda will be proud of you, Canton will consider you the "swell" department, and you will feel better—and look better—the day after.

Congressman J. Sloat Fassett, the Warwick of Chemung county, N. Y., was scheduled to umpire a base ball game at Elmira yesterday between the teams of the Tennis club and Country club. Here's hoping his decisions were better than some he has made in the great game of state politics.

Certainly remarkable, when you consider that wool has been advanced 10 to 25 per cent. in price. With many clothing manufacturers that increase meant less hand-tailoring or inferior materials—probably both—to keep down to what they were last year. That was not the case with the makers of

FELL FROM LADDER, FRACTURED SKULL.

Accident Which Cost West Franklin Man His Life.

A. M. Shepard of West Franklin, was fatally injured at West Franklin Thursday morning, when he fell from a ladder fracturing his skull and both jaws. He was helping a neighbor to repair a barn. Because of his age which is well past 50 years, and the serious nature of his injuries little hope of his recovery was entertained; he died yesterday.

Shepard was a son-in-law of James Mason of Canton, and his father was Silas E. Shepard, well known in the county. Arrangements for the funeral have not yet been announced.

LEHIGH IMPROVEMENTS.

Extensive Work, All Tending Toward a Four-Track Road.

Besides the extensive improvements which are now under way in Towanda and vicinity, great activity is still in progress on the Lehigh Valley railroad between Coxton and Ransom, where additional tracks are being laid, the work being a part of the general plan to make the Lehigh Valley a four-tracked line. At the Ransom end of the section a force of about 200 laborers are at work under half a dozen foremen throwing the main tracks over to the East, in order to make way for the new tracks that are to be laid on the river side. It is also necessary to operate trains on a single track along the stretch where the work is in progress. Nearer Coxton a force of 200 men were at work Monday laying heavy new rails on the third line, the purpose being to make all four tracks along this stretch of road of standard equipment, with stone ballast and heavy rails, so that heavy trains can be run at high speed over all the tracks. A glance at the character and extent of the work that is being done along this section of the line gives the impression that the Lehigh Valley management regards Coxton and the vicinity of the new storage yard at Ransom os of th eutmost importance from a traffic point of view and intends to expend a larg sum of money to make the track equipmetn substantial and adequate.

The new coal storage plant at Ransom is now in operation, and a considerable amount of coal of certain sizes is being dumped there. The mechanical equipment is of the most modern type and the coal is handled, both in dumping and reloading, in the most expeditious manner. The amount of manual labor required is reduced to a minimum.

Lehigh's Great Work.

The transformation of the Lehigh Valley railroad during the past decade from a company that could not maintain its property and meet its fixed charges at the same time into one earning 15 per cent. upon its stock after liberal betterment expenditures has been one of the results of the new era of centralization in the anthracite industry, says the Wall Street Journal. In the face of the increase of not far from 100 per cent. in the company's gross earnings during that time, it is not a little surprising to find that the Lehigh is carrying nearly the same tonnage of anthracite coal as it was ent years ago. and that its earnings on the transportation of this same amount of coal have increased from $8,470,000 to $13,530,000. The proportion of soft coal hauled, unlike the same item in the tonnage clasification of the Reading, has remained a negligible quantity.

Burglary at Rome.

The general store of L. R. Browning at Rome, was entered by burglars on Thursday night. The thieves secured $14 in money, four pairs of shoes, and several other articles. Entrance was gained by cutting out a window pane, but the robbers left no clues.

The Rome police and others in the county with whom they have communicated are inclined to believe that the burglary is the work of a stranger, a description of whom has been given to the local police. Another theory is that Alfred Wagner who escaped some days ago from the Owego jail is the perpetrator. The fact that the burglar cut the telephone wires leads to the belief that he is headed this way.

Charged With Robbery.

Justice Meredith Monday morning held to court Sherman and Gratis Vanderpool on a charge of robbery. The arrest was made by Constable C. E. McCracken. Arnold Heeman was the complainant, and he alleged that last Thursday he sat down on the river bank and fell asleep. When he awoke he was shy $35, and his suspicions immediately centered upon the young Vanderpools, who had been his companions during the day.

DIRT IS FLYING.

Good Progress Being Made on the P., B. & E. Railroad Work.

President Sawyer of the Pittsburg, Binghamton & Eastern railroad, stated to a representatnve of the Canton Sentinel Monday that a large camp of Italians would soon be quartered on the D. T. Lindley farm near East Canton and that the work of grading between East Canton and Canton would be started within a few days.

The gang working westward from Powell has already reached LeRoy and will soon have the grading completed to East Canton.

A steam shovel for use on this section will be at East Canton on Aug. 10.

A carload of rails for the new road is now at the station there.

When asked whether there was a probability of running trains over the Canton-Towanda section this year, President Sawyer stated that it was expected to begin traffic in November or December.

No information could be gained as to the route through Canton. It seems to be a difficult proposition, and while the official s doubtless have a feasible plan they are still running lines over different routes to make sure of getting the best grades.

It Was Not Burglary.

Last Saturday evening Mr. and Mrs. Fred T. Porter of Windfall, having retired early, were shortly afterward suddenly awakened from their peaceful slumbers by the sound of footsteps in the rooms below. The tension of their minds was soon relaxed upon hearing familiar voices and upon investigation they were happly surprised to find nearly 50 of their friends had come to help them celebrate the tenth anniversary of their wedding day. With the help of some of the company the bride and groom of ten years ago were soon presentable, the bride attired in her wedding gown just as it was first worn, and they welcomed the guests most cordially. The tables were soon arranged and were very pretty with their beautiful flowers and dainty refreshments. The evening passed all too swiftly in renewing friendships and in music and at a late hour the company dispersed for their homes wishing Mr. and Mrs. Porter many happy returns of this their wedding day. A very pleasant feature of the evening was the presence of Arthur M. Warren of Rochester, a former resident of the place.

Lots of Coal in Tioga County.

The Aylesworth mine near Morris has three layers of coal which average from four to seven feet in thickness. It is estimated by mining engineers that the bed is so extensive that if 1,000 tons of coal were removed each day it would require at least 30 years to exhaust the supply and work every day. The Erie Railroad company is etxending their tracks to an old mine between Arnot and Landrus on the Tioga division. The old mine has not been worked for several years and will soon be cleaned and operated again.—Wellsboro Gazette.

CHEMUNG COUNTY SHERIFF REMOVED BY GOVERNOR.

Stanley Day of Elmira, Appointed to Succeed Mr. McDowell.

Governor Higgins has removed J. M. McDowell from the office of sheriff of Chemung county and appointed Stanley Day of Elmira, to fill the vacancy. McDowell was tried on charges preferred by Harry B. Miller of Elmira, testimony being taken before W. S. Thrasher, a comimssioner appointed by the governor. The evidence, according to a memoranda issued by the governor, showed that McDowell appointed as court attendants persons in his employment as sheriff; that they performed no services except such as they would naturally render as employes of the sheriff, and that the sheriff appropriated to his own use the proceeds of certificates payable for their services.

'It is an outrage," said a prominent Elmiran. "It brands the sheriff to the world as a grafter, when there has been no grafting, and only an honest performance of duty. From what I know of this matter, when the people get all the facts, it will be shown that Sheriff McDowell not only has been faithful, but has actually saved the county $2,000 through his method of appointing and paying court officers."

For 24 hours, Chemung county was without a sheriff; McDowell's removal took effect immediately on Governor Higgins's order, but the papers appointing Stanley Day as McDowell's successor were not forthcoming.

The last report is that McDowell has already taken steps to contest his discharge and the case will be carried into the courts.

"PETE" OVERFIELD HAS TURNED GOLD MINER.

Once Famous Foot Ball Player from Meshoppen at Nome.

"Pete" Overfield, a native of Meshoppen, the one time hero of the Pennsylvania gridiron and the man who was lionized by every foot ball enthusiast and recognized as the foremost center in the country, is spending his honeymoon in Nome, Alaska, where he is the proprietor of a rich gold mine. Immediately after his marriage last June to Miss Virginia Beale Leckie, the author of a number of popular books, he started for the Northwest.

In his letter to The Press he states that the camp is more prosperous than ever and that the land of the midnight sun and of perpetual night is far better than generally believed. His wife devoting her stay in the mining town to gathering ideas for literary work she contemplates publishing shortly and will in all probability keep in touch with civilization by corresponding for some of the Eastern magazines.

"Pete," however, has turned full miner and will devote his energy to developing his mine which is at present one of the richest in the country. His law practice will stand him in good stead as the camp is rapidly flourishing into a prosperous business center of that part of the mining district. Traveling is not so pleasant as with the modern accommodations, but seems to suit the newly married couple who report conditions very comfortable and have made arrangements to stay there for a year.

Stock Quotations on Trains.

The Lehigh Valley railroad has arranged to provide stock quotations on its through trains between New York and Buffalo. These stock quotations will be placed on board trains at Buffalo and at Glen Summit Springs, Pa.; being received direct at these points by private wire. Notices will be displayed in the smoking rooms of coaches and of Pullman cars on Lehigh Valley trains. This innovation will no doubt be popular with the operators on the market who make business trips over this line.

AN EXPENSIVE PANAMA.

Henry Baker Will Work Thirty Days to Pay for One.

Henry W. Baker, the man who made away with a Panama hat belonging to D. F. Mutchler, a guest at the Kinney House, was captured by Officers Guy Hollon and Arthur Watson upon a warrant sworn out by Proprietor James Kinney. The officers found the man in Williams's barn at East Towanda. Young Baker had the hat upon his head when arrested. He was much the worse for liquor and acted like a man also under the influence of drugs. Brought before Justice Meredith, Baker entered a plea of guilty to larceny and was sentenced to spend 30 days in Towanda jail. Constable Hollon telephoned Chief Walsh of Sayre, of Baker's arrest, and the Sayre policeman replied that Baker was wanted at that place for stealing a valuable dog.

Midnight Burglar at Canton.

Wednesday morning of last week, about 3 o'clock, H. Lee Clark, who lives in West Union street, Canton, just beyond the railroad tunnel, was awakened by what he thought was a bird fluttering in the window curtain and turning over as quietly as possible to ascertain the cause, he was surprised to see a man's hand grasping the sill of the window near his bed. With a quick spring he got hold of the hand, but before he could secure the intruder had got away and escaped across the lawn, and afterwards upon investigation Mr. Clark discovered that two $1 bills were missing from his pocket, but the watch and Masonic charm were still there, showing that the burglar had been in the house before and was making a second trip to get more.

E. W. Fuller Is Still Missing.

The whereabouts of Edward W. Fuller, who conducted a stock exchange in Owego and who disappeared several days ago, still remain a mystery. It is now estimated that his shortage will amount to about $7,500. One of his creditors lost about $3,500 and another one about $1,000. There are ten or 15 more creditors. The attachments, which were obtained on $500 deposited by Mr. Fuller in the First national bank and the office furniture, are returnable Aug. 20. It is believed that Mr. Fuller did not carry any great amount of money away with him, but that he lost it in unlucky speculation, together with about $6,000 of his own money.—Owego Gazette.

Mr. Fuller was known somewhat in Towanda, Sayre and Waverly, and the unfortunate outcome of his too-deep ventures is much regretted.

Snow in Honesdale.

While the thermometer has been hovering around the 100 mark in Towanda, they are engaged in drawing cart loads of snow about the streets of Honesdale. This unusual statement is explained in the fact that the snow, and ice, too, comes from the depths of an immense culm bank, from which the Honesdale Electric Light plant gets its fuel. The workmen in digging these banks, find quantities of fresh snow and ice, and the temperature of the excavation is a refreshing change from that of the outside world.

DIRECT CHICAGO LINE

Plans For New Railroad From New York Via Pittsburg.

POWER WILL BE ELECTRICITY

Consolidation of Three Lines, as Project of Joseph Ramsey, Jr., Associated With English Capitalists — Shortest Route Between East and West.

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 14.—Papers of consolidation of three railroads in different parts of Pennsylvania will be filed at Harrisburg this week, which will constitute the formal announcement of a project of prominent foreign bankers, associated with Joseph Ramsey, Jr., former president of the Wabash railroad, to build a low grade double track railroad from New York to Chicago by way of Pittsburg, which will cost about $150,000,000. Complete surveys have already been made, and it is expected that work, preliminary to actual grading and construction next spring, will begin this fall.

It is expected that the road will require three years to construct. It is contemplated to operate it with electric locomotives from the beginning. It will be known as the New York, Pittsburg and Chicago Air line, and will be sixty-five miles shorter to New York than the Pennsylvania and 108 miles shorter than the shortest line between New York and Chicago.

Will Have Easy Curves.

The new Keystone Air line will traverse the important bituminous coal fields of central Pennsylvania, now controlled by the Pennsylvania railroad, and will also pierce the anthracite region throughout its length. It will not only be the shortest line through Pennsylvania, but it will cross the summit of the Alleghany mountains 400 feet lower than the Pennsylvania and will have very easy curves and remarkably low grades for a mountain line.

Mr. Ramsey confirms the above in a telegram from New York. The cost of the line between Pittsburg and New York, Mr. Ramsey says, is estimated to be between $75.000,000 and $100,000,000, all of which has been pledged, the bulk of it by foreign capitalists.

The merger papers to be filed this week will provide for the consolidation of the Indiana, Clearfield and Eastern, the Allentown, Tamaqua and Ashland and the Brush Creek and Crows Run railroads.

PENNYPACKER ARRESTED.

Policeman Thought Pennsylvania Governor Was a Tramp.

Philadelphia, Aug. 12. — Governor Samuel W. Pennypacker, chief executive of Pennsylvania, was under arrest as a vagrant for the fraction of a minute at Norristown.

The governor was very tired when he landed in Norristown after his trip to New York, and he was travel stained and dusty. He comes from sturdy Dutch stock that never did believe much in the pressing of trousers and such.

As he had some time to await the trolley car for Collegeville, whence he was to drive for his Schwensville home, he seated himself on the granite steps of the Penn Trust Company building.

These steps have been used as a lounging place by tramps, and the trust company had complained to the police. Patrolmen were given strict instructions to see that the steps were kept clear.

When Patrolman Warren saw an untidy looking man with head down squatted on the steps he crossed the street to do his duty.

"Come on now," he said, "it's the lockup for yours."

Governor Pennypacker looked up, startled.

Warren recognized the governor's famous beard and literally threw up his hands.

"That's all right, that's all right," said his excellency. "Always do your duty and never make fish of one and fowl of the other. I just arrived from New York. It was a long, hot trip, and, having a quarter of an hour to wait for my trolley car, I found the steps very inviting to a tired traveller. Good night, sir."

The trolley came just then and the governor got aboard.

Mrs. Hartje to Leave Pittsburg.

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 10.—Mrs. Augustus Hartje and her two children, her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. John S. Scott, and their two unmarried daughters, Helen and Ida, will leave Pittsburg forever as soon as decision is rendered in the Hartje divorce case. They will reside in either New York or Philadelphia. The change is made chiefly for the benefit of Mrs. Hartje's little ones, Mary Louise and Scott, who have been the victims of persecution by young and thoughtless school and play mates since the divorce trial began.

Woman Takes Night Airship Trip.

Franklin, Pa., Aug. 12.—Mrs. Mary Prentiss Miller, wife of Major Charles J. S. Miller, had an exciting trip in an airship in company with Leo Stevens, the inventor. The start was made after dark, and when the ship was 600 feet in midair the engine gave out. The craft descended on a hill overlooking the town, only 300 feet from the edge of a high precipice. In descending the end of the bag struck a house, but no damage resulted.

MANY CROPS DESTROYED.

Terriffic Hail Storm Near LeRaysville Did Great Damage.

Last week mention was made of the terriffic hail, wind and electric storm that passed over this section on Monday afternoon, Aug. 6.

On Wednesday we went to Centerville to see the effects of the storm and found that the reports of the destruction were not exaggerated in the least. While the storm at LeRaysville blew from the Southwest, at Centerville it blew from the Northwest as was evident from the direction the cornstalks lay. At William Kneller's, George Brown's, Sanford Dibble's, E. Jayne's, Leonard Brink's, I. L. LaRue's, Eugene Reynolds's and George Coolbaugh the havoc done was the worst, while on all sides considerable damage was done. William Kneller had 72 lights of glass broken in his dwelling. Three hours after the storm one could pick up hailstones an inch square and at one place they were piled up to the depth of nearly three feet.

The farmers above mentioned have in their barns for the coming Winter only the hay gathered and from the condition of the fields they will be unable to gather anything further,—LeRaysville Times.

CZAR GOES TO GUARDS' CAMP

Well Protected as Result of Attempt to Kill Grand Duke.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 14.—In spite of the attempt on the life of the Grand Duke Nicholas Nicholaievitch on Aug. 10 at Krasnoye-Selo, the emperor, accompanied by his entire family and the major portion of the court, has gone to Krasnoye-Selo to spend a week at the guards' camp. Six additional guard regiments have gone to the camp from St. Petersburg, and the most rigid precautions have been taken to protect the safety of his majesty during his stay.

The railroad station at St. Petersburg is heavily guarded, and no civilians are allowed to leave there for Krasnoye-Selo except after being fully identified. A grand review is scheduled for Aug. 19, after which the imperial family will go to Tsarskoe-Selo instead of returning to Peterhof, although some of the papers report that it is the intention of the imperial family immediately to go by sea to Livadia, in the Crimea, and spend the autumn there.

THE FAIRVIEW SITE HAS BEEN SELECTED.

State Hospital For Insane To Be Built in Wayne County.

The State commission appointed to select a site for a State hospital for the criminal insane and to begin the erection of the buildings this week, accepted a tract of land containing 625 acres at Fairview, Wayne county, from the Delaware & Hudson Railroad Co., on which the hospital will be erected.

The commission was created by the legislature of 1905 and consists of President Pro Tem. of the Senate Sproul, Speaker Walton, Senator Scott, Representative Marstellar, of Lehigh, and Charles H. Mullen, of Cumberland, and Congressman Wright of Wayne. The last two were appointed on the commission by Governor Pennypacker. The act appropriated $10,000 for a site, and $150,000 to commence the erection of the buildings.

Fourteen sites were offered to the commission at various pices, including the Laning farm in Wysox. Speaker Walton, as president of the commission, had visited all the big institutions in the United States and Canada providing for the care of the criminal insane, and the members of the commission had inspected the various sites submitted to them.

The Delaware & Hudson Railroad Co. at first offered the commission 200 acres gratis. The members deemed this inadequate and after several months given up to negotiating for more territory on the part of the commission, the railroad company agreed to transfer 625 acres to the State for the proposed hospital for a consideration of $5.

The site has an elevation of 2,000 feet above the sea level and on clear days the Catskill mountains can be seen in the distance. A part of the tract, consisting of 468 acres, is a farm, two-thirds of which is under cultivation. It contains a mansion, two large barns and other buildings. The other part of the site constitutes what is known as Fairview Park. Running along this part are the tracks of the Delaware and Hudson railroad, with switches leading into the center of the grounds.

The company also transfers to the State the culm banks on the site, containing coal which, it is estimated, will give fuel to the institution for the next twenty years. There is an abundance of pure water on the ground. Several springs feed small streams that run through the field. These will supply the institution with all the water needed.

STEVENSVILLE MERCHANT WAS BADLY INJURED.

Fred E. Fassett Meets With Accident Which May Mean Permanent Injury.

On Sunday afternoon last Merchant Fred E. Fassett of Stevensville met with a serious accident that may be the cause of a permanent injury. During the afternoon mentioned accompanied by his wife he took a drive, returning about 8 o'clock. His wife got out of the wagon and he drove to the barn in the rear of the store. Mrs. Fassett after a few moments retired and soon fell asleep not awaking until about half past ten when she discovered that her husband had not returned from the barn.

She hastily dressed and went to the barn where she found her husband at the foot of the stairs unconscious and bleeding profusely from two ugly wounds on the head. Neighbors were aroused and he was taken to his home. Whether he was a victim of foul play or fell down the stairs is at present unknown for he on Monday evening had not gained consciousness sufficiently to tell anything about the affair.—LeRaysville Times.

WIRELESS IN THE ARMY.

Troops on the March Can Easily Communicate With Headquarters.

Washington, Aug. 14.—Satisfactory results with wireless apparatus are reported to the chief signal officer in Washington from Camp Roosevelt, at Mount Gretna, Pa. Under the direction of Captain Gibbs of the signal corps there has been installed at headquarters a set of wireless instruments and a station erected. Two other sets of instruments are also in use and are sent with principal detachments of troops when out on march or in maneuvers.

From distances of ten or more miles when a halt is made a wireless apparatus is brought out, and within five minutes or less messages are exchanged with headquarters. Kites are used for these outlying temporary stations, and it has been demonstrated that direct and quick communication can be established.

On some occasions the signal corps goes out with the cavalry, carrying the apparatus with them and moving at a rate which would render impossible the string of wires in order to keep in communication with headquarters. By wireless, communication can be had at any time with headquarters.

BURLINGTON'S OLD CHURCH.

Annual Meeting Held There Next Sunday—Church and Its Builders.

On Saturday and Sunday next at the "Old Church" in Burlington will be held the annual meeting, which yearly draws a large crowd to this, the oldest church in Bradford county. The first service will be on Saturday at 2 o'clock.

The first white men to explore what is now Burlingto ntownship, were Isaac and Abraham DeWitt and James McKean. They located farms and in 1791—the following year—five families come to the then wilderness to make their homes. The settlers were in the main of a religious turn of mind and in 1798 a Methodist congregation was formed and Rev. Jacob Gruber was sent as the first preacher.

The old church was first built of logs in the Fall of 1794 and used for a general meeting place of the settlement. It was burned in 1799, but rebuilt in 1800 of hewed logs and considered a very fine building. In 1822 it was torn down and replaced by the presetn frame structure; the acre of ground upon which it and the surrounding graveyard lies was donated by James McKean, one of the first three explorers to the region. He was the second person to be buried there, Robert McDowell being the first.

A few years since, mainly through the efforts of Judge A. C. Fanning, then of Troy, the rapidly decaying structure was restored and repainted, but without interfering with the interior or changing the exterior of this venerable monument to the piety of the pioneers, to which each year at "yearly meeting" time the Methodists of Western Bradford turn with one accord to enjoy a reunion and a service of unusual interest.

The custom should not be allowed to lapse through the coming years.

George E. Foster,

Painting is practical work. Skill wins. It's the same with paint making. You know 4 gallons L. & M. mixed with 3 gallons Linseed Oil makes enough paint for a moderate sized house—the best paint money can buy—because the L. & M. Zinc hardens the L. & M. White Lead and makes the L. & M. paint wear like iron.

Buy L. & M. and don't $1.50 a gallon for Linseed Oil, as you do in ready-for-use paint, but buy oil fresh from the barrel at 60 cents, and mix with the L. & M.

Actual cost L. M. about $1.20 per gallon.

Sold by Spalding Hardware Co., Towanda, Pa.; Dewey Bros., Gillett, Pa.; Edgar Berry, Bentley Creek, Pa.

NEW YORK FASHIONS

Patterns For a Shirt Waist Dress In Pongee Designed by Martha Dean—Nos. 6498 and 6499.

Pongee in one of the many soft colors is excellent for traveling and street wear. It is light of weight and hence cool, sheds dust and does not easily show the dirt. There are several beautiful shades of blue and brown which make serviceable and becoming suits. The one pictured is an excellent model for the home dressmaker to undertake, depending entirely upon the trimming straps and general cut for its smart individuality. The fanciful stole yoke is a feature becoming to almost any one, as it adds breadth of shoulder and height to the wearer. The skirt is circular, with inverted box plaits in front and back. A deep fold of the material finishes the bottom of the skirt. For the medium size seven and a half yards of thirty-six inch goods are needed for the dress. Two patterns—No. 6498, sizes, 32 to 42 inches bust measure; No. 6499, sizes, 20 to 30 inches waist.

DIRECTIONS FOR ORDERING

Send 20 cents to this office, give numbers of these patterns, Nos. 6498 and 6499, and state sizes desired. They will then be sent to you by mail postpaid. Pattern For a Graceful Kimono Designed by Martha Dean—No. 4025.

Some of the new models in negligees are infinitely graceful, and where the soft india silks are used no effect could be prettier. The modes of the east have been decidedly the fashion for some time, and the kimono cut on the lines of the mandarin robe is now quite the thing. The garment has a bias seam in the center of the back, and the shoulder and sleeve seams are in one. The front of the sleeve is cut in one piece with the front of the gown and the back arranged accordingly. This circular cut insures a smooth fit over the shoulders and increased flare below. The gown lends grace to any wearer. A soft silk, Japanese cloth, lawn or light woolen goods would serve. In the medium size five and a half yards of thirty-six inch material are needed. No. 4025, sizes, 12 to 16 years.

DIRECTIONS FOR ORDERING

Send 10 cents to this office, give number of this pattern, No. 4025, and state size desired. It will then be sent to you by mail postpaid. Be sure to write plainly and always give full address. Several days must be allowed for delivery of pattern.

SUIT AGAINST "COKE KING."

Another Rich Man's Son in the Lime Light.

Gilbert R. Rafferty, Sr., known as the "Coke King" of Pittsburg, has been sued for $500,000 by his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Deborah McIntyre Rafferty, for the alleged alineation of the affections of her husband, Gilbert T. Rafferty, Jr. The plaintiff married young Rafferty while he was yet a schoolboy.

The elder Rafferty is said to be worth between $18,000,000 and $20,000,000, all made in the coke industry. Five years ago he sold out his interests to Henry C. Frick and retired from active business. He lives at the Waldorf Astoria, New York, in Winter, and maintains two handsome Summer homes in the Thousand Isles, known as Imperial Isle and Bonnie Castle.

He is there now, having rushed way after accepting service of the sumons and complaint. From the lawyer it was learned that there will be no compromise. The lawyer denies that there is anything in the wife's story, as Rafferty, Sr., cut his son and closed his house against him when he learned of the marriage.

The elder Rafferty was a former business associate of the late William Thaw, father of Harr yK. Thaw, who killed Stanford White. The children of Rafferty and the children of Thaw grew up to manhood and womanhood together in the smoky town where the millions come from.

Myers—Storms.

At the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Myers, South Waverly at 8:30 o'clock Thursday evening, occurred the marriage of their daughter, Miss Cora, to Harry A. Storms. The ceremony was per the presence of about 20 relatives and formed by Rev. George A. Briigs in immediate friends. After a wedding supper Mr. and Mrs. Storms left on a late train for New York. On their return they will take up their residence with the bride's parents. Mrs. Storms thus becomes a daughter of John W. Storms, a well known farmer and politician of Northern Bradford county. The fine old Storms residence in South Waverly was the scene in the early Summer of a "surprise" wedding, which took place during a lawn fete and which united Miss Caroline Storms and Attorney E. D. Sebring.

The T. H. Symington company are to erect at once a one-story frame addition to their Market street plant. It will be 89x90 feet in dimensions. The contract has been awarded to the Corning Building company. The addition will be used as a milling and assembling room.—Corning Corr. Elmira Advertiser.

The Symingtons are brothers of R. S. Symington, who for several years past, until last Spring, was connected with the Cayuta Manufacturing company of Sayre, of which W. T. Goodnow was president. Mr. Symington was well known socially in Towanda, Owego, Corning and elsewhere in this section.

The robbery is the most daring perpetrated in this vicinity for many years. The robbers securing $500 worth of revenue stamps and about $50 in cash.

The brewery is situated at the corner of Main street and Alden road, surrounded b ythree or four houses making an ideal spot for the carrying out of such a deed because of the fact that it is so far removed from the borough.

BIG WOLF BITES BOY.

Visitor to Sayre Meets Peculiar and Painful Experience.

Little boys as well as girls contemplating a visit to Sayre had best watch out or the wolves will get them; a big gray wolf attacked Willie Sheridan of Ithaca, on Desmond street, Sayre, last terday and bit him so severely that Dr. H. S. Fish now has the young patient in charge.

The wolf does not roam around the village streets, but is one of a pair sent as a "gift" from an absent friend to a Sayre citizen. The fierce animal, though tethered to a clothes line, pounced upon the Sheridan boy who ventured too near. The lad's face was seriously torn and lacerated.

One Way to Boom Town.

Warrants for one player from each of the eight teams in the Elmira City league have been issued charging the players with a violation of section 225 of the supreme code which prohibits Sunday ball playing. Several of the warrants have already been served and four of the teams have retained Attorney John Deneen as counsel.

Stanley Day of Horseseads, who as deputy, succeeds the unfortunate Sheriff McDowell, is now in power, his comission papers having arrived from Governor Higgins. Day has the distinction of being one of the youngest sheriffs on record, his age being only 25 years. What with the pow-wow over the Sunday observance laws, the haling to court of clergymen to give evidence, the escape of Magee, the removal of the sheriff and other interesting performances, the efforts of old Elmira to attract wide attention are meeting with a certain sort of success.

Vigorous Old Lady.

Mrs. Polly Van Pelt of Westfield, who is past 93 years of age performed a remarkable feat last week. She is keeping house for James Vincent, who resides on the "dug road" above town. On Sunday of last week she started out in the morning and walked to Addison, a distance of 27 miles and on Thursday returned in the same manner. She says she has never ridden on the cars and to several inquiries as to why she didn't answered that she had always walked wherever she went and money could not hire her to ride on the railorads. She is a familiar character on the streets of Westfield but no one has ever seen her in a conveyance of any sort.—Free Press.

Well Marked Turtle.

Lewis Biles, Sr., of Homets Ferry, on June 23, 1872, caught a land turtle and marked his name and date on its back and then let it go; on July 18, 1884, T. P. Biles again found the turtle and scribing his name and date of finding, liberated it, and again in 1897 he found and marked it. The same turtle was found by Guy Ellsworth on July 31, and he also cut his name and date on the shell and loosed it. The age of the turtle of course is not known but it is now 32 years since Lewis Biles cut his name on the turtle, which was even then a good sized one and turned it loose for some one else to find.—Rocket.

Canton Walloped Troy.

In one of the most exciting base ball games of the season Canton shut out Troy on Wednesday afternoon by the score of 2 to 0, outplaying them at every point. "Rube" Bressler was at his best and little chance did Troy have at any stage of the game, to get a man across the home plate. Canton scored one in the second and one in the eighth inning and perhaps the one feature of the game which lent enjoyment to it was the impartial umpiring of Umpire McGrath of Elmira. The crowd was very large and orderly although quite demonstrative at times.

Binghamton and Elmira.

Although there has long been a rivalry between Binghamton and Elmira, it was never supposed that an actual collision between them would occur. But such was the case on Monday. The trouble was in the New York harbor when the ferryboats Binghamton and Elmira collided, doing consideral damage to both boats. When it reaches a condition that such things happen, it is time for Binghamton and Elmira to make up, let each other alone and agree to keep out of each other's path in the future.

Home Killed Beef.

Ira Depew hitched his horses to a mowing machine at his farm in Litchfield and they took fright and ran away. Three cattle were in a field, and one valuable cow was overtaken in the flight, mowed down and terribly cut by the knives in the machine, so that he was obliged to kill her on the spot. He was in Athens selling the beef Monday afternoon.—Sayre Record.

Arson Charged.

Bornt is charged with arson by the Aetna Insurance company, with whom the burned wagon was insured for $350, it being alleged that he set fire to the same in order to secure the insurance.

They are Cool, Anyhow.

An item is going the rounds of the press regarding Wayne County's modest boast of having within her borders 39 lakes. It may appear to strangers somewhat like a peek-a-boo waist to put the number of her lakes at 100, but nevertheless it is much nearer the correct aggregate than 39.—Wayne Independent.

BEAR SEEN AT OVERTON.

Old Bruin Making His Home in the Edge of Sullivan County.

The Sullivan Gazette-Herald tels the following true bear story:

On Wednesday evening of last week two of Joseph Marshall's boys, aged about 3 or 4 and 9 years, were sent after the cows. About a quarter of a mile from, and in sight of the farm residence, is a small piece of woods and as the boys entered the timber, the smaller boy saw what he supposed was a neighbor's dog and called to it to come to him. The boy and the bear approached each other until they had gotten almost together, when the larger boy who had seen a bear at the Forksville fair last year, came upon the scene, and discovered that the animal was not a dog, and called to the younger boy to run home, stating to his brother that the anmal was a bear. The boys ran home and other members of the family got the cows.

The bear has been seen in Overton township several times within the last ten weeks. It was seen several times on the farm of Edward Molyneux, joining the Marshall farm. Two young ladies met the bear in the public road near Joseph Dieffenbachs's residence, about one mile from Overton, some time ago.

Bruin seems to understand that the game laws protect him at this season of the year and proposes to live on the fat of the land.

TALK SECESSION.

Milltown Citizens Say That They Wish a Separate Borough.

Many of the citizens of Milltown are discussing a project for dividing the borough of Sayre so that Milltown may become a separate municipality.

The persons who are discussing the project are giving the following grievances: They say that by closing Shepard street they were practically cut from the borough of Sayre, This street was closed in order that the new shops might have sufficient ground to be located there. They further say that a trunk line sewer is to be laid at borough expense. They must pay their proportionate share of that expense and as Milltown is not to be sewered. they will derive no benefit from that part of the sewer for which they must assist in paying. —Evening News.

A WATERLOO AT MONROE.

The Ulster Ball Team Met Stinging Defeat There Last Week.

The Ulster ball team, who on beating Monroeton by a score of 4 to 2 claimed the championship of the county, met its Waterloo Aug. 8, at Monroeton, being defeated by a score of 14 to 0. Davidson and Saxton were in the box for Ulster, and Morrison caught. Northrop pitched for Monroeton and was caught by Dunfee. James Dunfee umpired.

Northrop struck out ten men, allowed one man to first on balls, hit one man and allowed two singles. The Monroeton boys got their 14 runs by 11 singles, four two-base hits and four allowed to walk to first. Ulster was credited with five errors and Monroeton three.

Boom for Wiliamsport.

If dispatches from Williamsport are reliable, that hustling little city is about to be boomed by the location there of a million-dollar cement manufacturing enterprise. A mill costing $445,000 is to be erected on the property formerly occupied by the King farm near Nippino Park on the Susquehanna river. The plant is expected to employ about 300 hands and will have a capacity of 2,000 barrels daily of the finished product.

New Bait for Eels.

John Carney, an Allentown laborer at a furnace, while swimming in a canal felt a sharp pain in the big toe of his left foot, and knew that something had grabbed hold of it. Suspecting a snapping turtle, he swam quickly to shore and on pulling out his foot landed a four-foot eel. Carney, having no implements with him, had considerable trouble in extricating his foot from the bite of the eel.

THE LINCOLN PARTY.

May Nominate By Certificate in Only Twenty-One Counties.

A Harrisburg special of August 8 says: According to a decision rendered today by Secretary of the Commonwealth McAfee, the Lincoln party is entitled to hold conventions and make nominations by certificates in only 21 of the 67 counties of Pennsylvania.

In the 46 other counties the Lincoln organization has no legal standing as a political party. In more than two-thirds of the state, if the Lincolnites desire to set up local tickets they must do so by the cumbersome method of nomination papers, bearing signatures numbering 2 per cent. of the total vote cast for state treasurer last Fall.

The decision was made in the case of the Lackawanna county Lincolnites, who undertook to file certificates of nomination for congressional, legislative and county offices. The official returns show a total of only 472 Lincoln party votes cast in Lackawanna county last November, which is considerably less than the required 2 per cent. Secretary McAfee, therefore, rejected the certificates.

Secretary McAfee's action is a hard blow to the Lincolnits, who had evidently figured on making nominations by certificate all over the state. In many of the counties they did actually poll the necessary 2 per cent., but owing to the fusion arrangement the election officers frequently bunched their votes with the Democrats, whose nominees were the same. The state department, however, can not go back of the official returns, which give the Lincoln party the right to nominate by certificates in only the following counties: Bedford, Bradford, Bucks, Cambria, Carbon, Chester, Delaware, Erie, Lancaster, Lawrence, Lycoming, McKean, Montgomery, Northampton, Northumberland, Philadelphia, Snyder, Somerset, Tioga, Union and York.

MAILABLE PACKAGES.

Uncle Sam Forbids R. F. D. Carriers to Carry Them.

Ever since the establishment of the rural free delivery routes it has been the practice of carriers to take articles to and from towns for certain patrons of the routes either out of good will or for hire. The postoffice department wants all the revenue it can get from the routes to help make them self supporting. Therefore it has issued an order to the effect that no package be carried by the carrier, either free or for money, which weighs under four pounds unless postage shall have been paid on it at the regular rate.

The order issued by the fourth assistant postmaster general follows: "Postmasters of rural free delivery offices are directed to inform rural delivery carriers that they must not carry, as express matter, for hire or as a favor, any article or package weighing four pounds or under, which is mailable, and carriers will inform patrons that such packages can only be delivered by them after the required postage shall have been affixed to such package."

Dimmick Family Reunion.

The annual reunion of the Dimmick family was held Aug. 8 at the home of L. G. Dimmock, in LeRaysville. Owing to the unfavorable weather the attendance was not as large as it would have been otherwise; however, the day was most enjoyably spent by those present. A bountiful dinner was served at noon, after which all were invited to the lawn where the photographer awaited them.

President James Allen then called to order and after a short program of music and recitations, offivers for the coming year were installed as follows: President, William Sexton; secretary, Paul E. Dimmock; executive committee, Mrs. S. J. Cass, Frank L. Dimmick, Mrs. Will Tyrrell, Mrs. James Allen, Mrs. John Stoll. By the motion of the president thanks were extended for the hospitality shown by the host and his family, also the place of meeting for the coming year was decided to be at the home of Philander Sexton, Athens.

Illegal Annexation.

By a decision of the Lackawanna county courts the annexation of Lincoln Heights to Scranton some time ago is declared to have been unconstitutional and that potion of Lackawanna township will now be compelled to revert to township government instead of being a part of the city. The decision caused great disappointment to the residents of Lincoln Heights, who were practically unanimous in their petition to be admitted to the city. Lincoln Heights formed the Twenty-second ward of Scranton.

New Hose Nozzle.

The Sayre Fire department follows Waverly's lead in testing the Larkin shut-off hose nozzle. This is a unique and valuable patented contrivance, which enables the firemen at the nozzle to shut off and turn on the most powerful stream at his instant touch. The mechanism does this without subjecting the hose to any strain. It is thought the Sayre department may purchase one or more of the nozzles, though the Waverly firemen will not, probably for a year at least.
